

Tragic accident at the port of El Musel. A 56-year-old man, who responds to the initials J. A. S., died this morning while carrying out coal discharge tasks. The event took place around 10 am this morning. The deceased worked as a docker in the port of Gijón.

The causes of death are unknown, but everything seems to indicate that the death occurred due to a blow with one of the great machines that work in El Musel.

According to the first investigations, the man could have died after receiving a heavy blow to the head with the spoon of a crane while giving indications of how to operate.