

PortalPortuario

Panama: MIT port worker dies after being hit by a container

June 10, 2020

By Redacción PortalPortuario.cl
@PortalPortuario

A dock worker died at Manzanillo International Terminal (MIT), in the province of Colón, Panama, after being hit by a container while working as a stevedore on the Margaret Schulte ship.

“Our terminal regrets to report a serious accident that fills us with mourning and pain. Preliminary information indicates that Michael Manuel, a contractor for the company Unión de Trabajadores Portuario de la República de Panamá (U.T.P.R.P.) who was working as a stevedore aboard the ship Margaret Schulte, was hit by a container ”, indicated from MIT.

Likewise, “the causes of this unfortunate accident are already being investigated by the competent authorities. Manzanillo International Terminal (MIT) joins the pain of his relatives ”, they concluded from the premises through a statement.