

Docker is found dead under container

28/11/2020 08:19

At the beginning of Friday night, 27, a single port worker (TPA) was found dead, inside a ship that was moored in the container handling area, in the Port of Paranagua / The victim was the docker Marcio Roberto Bernardo, from 52 years old, who worked on the deck of the vessel and was located in the background, under a pile of containers.

Information passed on through social networks, revealed that other workers sensed that the victim was missing around 4 pm and then conducted a search for the vessel and ended up locating the lifeless worker under the pile of containers. The place was isolated to be examined and, afterwards, the body collected by the Instituto Medico Legal (IML), for complementary exams.
