The data on the fatal accident that has occurred this past morning at the facilities of the Ership company , located in the heart of the La Cabezuela industrial estate, are coming in a trickle.

Apparently, the deceased is a 48-year-old man who was, or at least resided in Puerto Real, and who could have died after the sliding door of entry and exit of the premises in which he works fell on him, apparently, in a way eventual, although this last point has not yet been fully confirmed.

The victim of the accident that has cost the life of Juan Carlos CP, 48 years old, could have suffered the accident around 9:00 p.m. yesterday, after finishing his day, but it seems that the body was not found until not a few hours passed.

According to industry sources, the deceased's own wife could be the person who found the body. The woman, seeing that her partner did not return home, was surprised and went to the company where Juan Carlos CP worked, where she found the body of her partner for whose life little more could be done.

According to police sources, there is an open investigation to clarify the circumstances of the work accident where this 48-year-old worker died.

Several units of the National Police traveled to the site, including the Scientific Police Brigade, whose specialists are still on site conducting a visual inspection of the scene. Likewise, the Investigating Court was informed on duty to activate the judicial commission and the protocol of action in the event of a serious or fatal work accident.
