Venice, 24 May 2022 - 33-year-old Alessandro Zabeo , the young worker who crashed yesterday in Porto Marghera , couldn't make it through the night . The man had fallen from a height of three meters into a ship managed by Vecon - the company that manages the terminal - after a life as a precarious: he had worked as a temporary worker for 14 years .

The 33-year-old hit his head and went into a coma, only to expire late yesterday evening. The causes of the fall from one of the ship's containers are still being examined. Among the hypotheses, that of an illness makes its way , but the worker could also have leaned excessively from the protected paths. At 6.30 today, a union presidium of Filt Cgil, Filt Cisl and Uiltrasporti was activated in the headquarters of the port workers' company, with consequent blocking of activities for the whole day .
