An indisposition could be the cause of the fatal accident that shook the Port of Vigo this morning, where a trucker died after his vehicle plunged into the sea at the Guixar dock. The emergency services at the scene of the accident could not do anything to save the life of the driver, who could not get out of the vehicle before it plunged into the dock.

A worker at the Basadre company —a company specialized in container transport and one of the emblematic of the Vigo port—, the deceased was an experienced driver with great understanding of the port area, so the causes point to an indisposition, according to port sources .
