

Ancona, a ship's mooring detaches and hits a worker: dead

10 June 2019

An employee of a maritime agency in Ancona died this morning, struck in the neck by the mooring line of a container ship, which was docking at the dock. The accident occurred around 6am this morning at platform 23 of the new dock, used by container ships.

According to a first reconstruction of the accident, the man was not directly interested in the operations of docking the ship, flying the Portuguese flag, and was in place to verify the operations of loading and unloading of the goods. The cable suddenly broke and, due to the whip effect, it hit him in full.

The man was rescued by a colleague, who immediately gave the alarm: when the doctors intervened, however, he was already dead.

The investigations are coordinated by public prosecutor Rosario Lioniello, who has seized the summit. The shipping agent was 33 years old, he was originally from Pavia and had been living in Ancona for a long time with his wife and two children