A tragic work accident was registered this Monday at the Contecar port terminal facility, located in the industrial zone of Mamonal, Cartagena. A worker belonging to one of the port operators lost his life after suffering an incident inside the terminal.

According to the official statement issued by Contecar, the incident occurred in the morning. Although the worker was immediately transferred to a care center, he died due to the severity of his injuries.

The company assured that, since the time of the accident, all safety, health care and occupational health protocols were activated, and expressed condolences to the deceased's family.

From Noticias Cartagena, we deeply regret this loss and consider that such facts should motivate a rigorous review of safety standards in the port environment, where operational risks are high. Prevention and continuous training of staff must be irreplaceable priorities.
